One who strives for us all

The graduation of 1976 is doubly important because while it symbolizes the end of one stage of life and the beginning of another it is also the 200th birthday of our country. This year's graduation, therefore, affords us a special opportunity to reflect not only on the progress of our individual lives, but on our progress as a people, as well.

As a people, our history is deeply rooted in this country from its very beginning. In 1776, Black people in America were slaves. Ironically, they gave their labor only to make our country free for others. Black people had no rights in 1776. The stirring words of the Declaration of Independence - "We hold these words to be self evident, that all men are created equal and that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights and among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" - were not written for Black people.

It was not until almost 100 years later, during the time of the Civil War, that Blacks were given the right to be free, legally. From the time Blacks first came to this country up to this year of the 200th birthday, Black people have had to fight and struggle and suffer for rights and privileges that other Americans have naturally enjoyed.

This fight, this struggle, this suffering is your heritage and your treasure. In this Bicentennial year, make it your commitment to contribute yourself to our people's proud history. Make it your commitment to continue this fight, this struggle against suffering, in every area of your lives. Prejudice, injustice, racism, ignorance are still the enemies, and education is our strongest weapon.

Segregation may no longer be the law, but it is still a fact of life in America. Tokenism in the professions, in politics, in the labor unions, in the arts, is a transparent mask through which we see the poverty and degradation in which the majority of our people still live. This is the vision that we must keep to remind ourselves that America has still to keep her promise to the majority of our people.

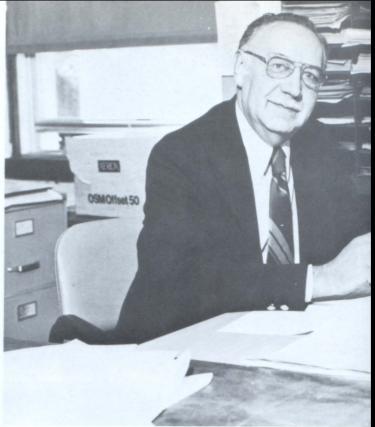

In this Bicentennial year, let us celebrate America's birthday by making a commitment to make her great promise a reality.

No other nation has ever had such great dreams for its people. Let the heritage of Black people in America be that they were in the forefront to make those dreams come true. Learn and do as much as you can, all your life, so that you will fulfill your own promise and that of America's as well.

Although with many of you our contact has been remote and indirect, we have followed your progress through school closely. We have enjoyed your scholastic achievements with you, and we have suffered your frustrations. So we feel that we know you very well. This makes us very proud. You have been a great class.

We have just a few thoughts to pass along to you. Because we have looked upon you as our own, perhaps at times we have been a little permissive. For you, those days are over! If you are going to make it, you have to make it on your own because no more excuses will be made for you. If you are going to compete, you must produce.

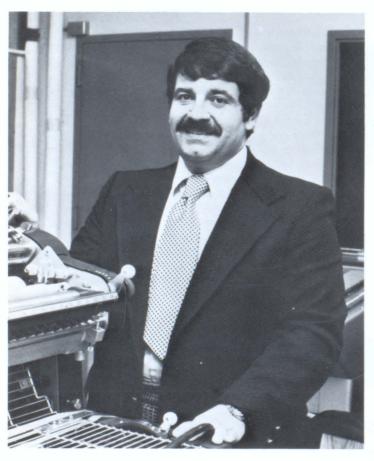

Ahead, you have many happy moments of successful achievement. Savor them and enjoy them to the full. But there will also be times when things do not go just right. These are the times that will sort the mature from the immature. The adult will take his adversaries in stride, learn a lesson from them, take courage and try again.

Our best wishes,

Being You...

One may well catch his star through artistic self-expression where talent is realized and one can stand out from the crowd. Weequahic High School offers its students strong programs in many areas of art, such as painting, metal work, sculpture, jewelry-making, macrame, drawing, and the history of art for appreciation. The expression of self evolves, and the student experiences deep respect and pride from the results of his work.

The primary objective of the Business Education Department is to prepare students in the fundamental training of business careers. This is achieved through the usage of modern electric typewriters, electric calculators, stenography, data processing courses, and other necessary equipment to assure the students of a top-rate education. Weequahic is one of very few schools in Newark so well supplied in the business curriculum.

The Business Department operates the Distributive Education program. This is a two-year program for students interested in careers in marketing, merchandising, management, and advertising. In addition to classroom work in these areas, some students are given on the job training in their field of interest. There is also a diversified Work Experience Program that is run by the Business Dept. The program is offered to business and non-business students. Students are provided with employment in offices, factories, banks, etc. The type of occupations depend on the career interests of the student. Most students in the programs plan to continue their education in college.

The English program at Weequahic strives to provide a curriculum that challenges the real capabilities of our students; that steers them into the mainstream of American cultural life while presenting and enhancing the monumental contributions of Black Americans.

The ability to communicate effectively with others is essential to social and academic success. Reading, Writing, Speaking and Listening skills are emphasized while students travel from past to present through the world of literature.

Areas of special interest are Biblical Literature, Speech Communication, Drama, Film Seminar, Journalism, English and History Coordinated, Humanities, The Ascent of Man film series and the Student-to-Student Tutoring programs.

Accent On...

The need for the knowledge of a foreign language seems to be increasing and is fast becoming an integral part of every student's academic curriculum. Modern technology brings man from country to country in a matter of hours. The jet age is upon us and a few of Weequahic's students have already realized the facility of communication a second language affords them. Many jobs require a bilingual proficiency. And, of course, colleges all over the world require some high school study in a foreign language as a prerequisite for acceptance. Weequahic offers Spanish, French, Latin, and Swahili.

Numbers Count

In today's economic world, where one feels the pinch of the decreased value of the dollar and the ever rising cost of living, the student of mathematics finds that numbers really do count. The math department at Weequahic offers programs for the college bound student as well as programs for those interested in a more practical mathematical background.

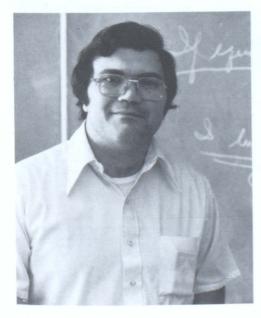

The student looking to graudate must pass a standardized math examination. A remedial course entitled "11th Year Math Review" is offered in preparation for this exam. Basic math techniques can be learned in Algebra I and II and Geometry courses. Students seeking more advanced courses can elect Calculus, Trigonometry, Math Advanced Placement I and II.

1975-76's music department has been one of the most active in recent years. The band, under the new direction of Mr. Berggren, has grown and improved remarkably while the Jazz Band and Chorus have been a listening pleasure for audiences.

The energy of Mr. Ransom along with the diligent work of interested and talented students has made the chorus one of the finest in the area. The music teachers at Weequahic strive to instill in students pride in their musical talents and appreciation for all forms of music.

Feeling Good

The physical education and health program provides a wide variety of activities to meet the social, emotional. and physical needs of Weequahic students. The school's curriculum consists of exercise classes, movement courses, organized sports activities, general health and first aid courses and co-ed classes in sex education. The curriculum also provides driver's education and prepares the student for the state's driver's license exam. These series of courses are designed to help train the student's body to its maximum potential and equip the student with the knowledge of how his body functions. The teachers are always there to guide and help the students get the most out of the school's program.

Home Economics and Industrial Arts are no longer separate departments. Due to an administrative change, they now come under the new heading of Practical Arts Department coordinated by Lester Fusco. Giving the student a basic knowledge concerning craftsmanship, quality, and good design is the main goal of this department. There are students involved in offset printing, fashion designing, architectural drawings, woodshop, and chef foods. These classes are becoming increasingly co-ed in their make-up and one is not surprised to find girls enrolled in mechanical drawing and shop programs or boys in Clothing I.

As The World Turns

Students of today need to be aware of the complexity of the world in which they live. To equip them with this knowledge, the science department offers varied courses that aid students in understanding their physical world, and stresses life and its relationship to the environment. There are the standard courses - Biology, Chemistry, and Physics—that are more pragmatic in nature. Courses such as Man-made World and Earth Science offers meaningful studies in ecological balance.

Issues And Answers

Development of critical thinking, understanding self and others and how man lives and reacts to one another, and to social, political, and economic conditions are the major goals of the social science department. Besides the required U. S. History I and II, various courses in economics, sociology, psychology, humanities, Afro-American Studies, and world history are instituted to meet these goals.

Students saw history in the making as Karen Quinlan's family battled for her right to die; as the Russians and Americans met and shook hands in space; as attempted assassinations on the life of President Ford were made; as Americans came to bat for the reopening of the Rubin Carter - John Artis case; and as CIA and FBI scandals came to light.

Half-Hour Notice

The bell rings. The substitute teacher steps before rows of quietly attentive students. She calls the roll, dispatches the attendance slip, flips open the absent teacher's lesson plan book, and picks up the lesson where it ended the day before.

That's what Mr. Barrett would like to think is going on in his classrooms. Actually —

Ten minutes after the bell, the substitute arrives panting. She wades through the chattering knot of students locked out of Room 437, trying not to hear the gleeful whispers, "Oh boy! A substitute!" Once inside, the kids sit with buddies knowing that the substitute hasn't had time to find a seating chart. They stop talking only long enough to hear their names called. Preliminaries over, she is ready to begin the lesson. Where is the sub folder? Where, oh where, indeed? Chances are the teacher has it with her, or never prepared one. What are they on? Ask the class. Seven different answers and a heated debate over who is right.

Pool substitutes are like impromptu performers who must think of an act on a half-hour's notice.

"Cheryl, why do the red spots on your face smear when I rub them?"

Educators have known for a long time that good health is essential to the learning process as well as the emotional well-being of the student. Hearing and sight problems are often the reason for poor grades. More than one student has been accused of laziness when the real culprit was ill health. Recent statistics have rated Newark as having the highest rate of Tuberculosis in the nation and one of the highest rates of Venereal Disease. For some students, the first step to regular routine health care begins at Weequahic High School Nurses' Office.

Book Beat

Due to a face-lift this year and the acquisition of audio-visual equipment, Weequahic's "library" has now been transformed into a "media center".

Despite the expansions in all areas of the center, overcrowded conditions still prevail.

The collection of books, magazines, filmstrips, and microfilms grew in an attempt to keep all material as recent and up-to-date as possible. As part of the new additions to the media center, students now enjoy private study corrals and microfiche viewers. The latter not only enables two pages to be reduced to the size of one page, but also allows the print to be transferred on a screen.

The new center provides a comfortable atmosphere for both student and teacher. It houses career and professional libraries, and records can be listened to quietly for both information and enjoyment purposes.

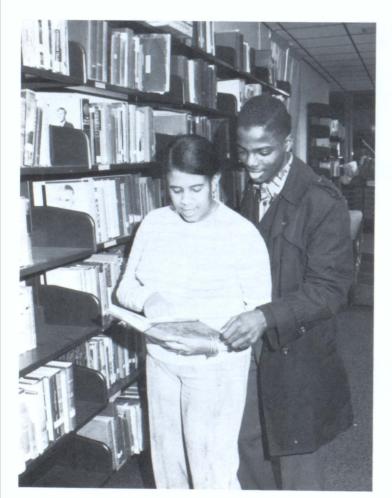

The media center is often used as an open class for discussions and guest speakers.

A special course in writing and researching the term paper is offered to interested seniors.

To acquaint Weequahic students with its new facilities, the media center conducted orientation sessions at the beginning of the school year for every single English class, giving mini-lessons on research and the card catalog.

Special Services

What to do after high school graduation is one of the most important decisions a student has to make. The Guidance Department is quite helpful in guiding students in making the right choices in careers and colleges. Career education is an integral part of Weequahic's guidance program. "Through individual conferences, through Career Days and career and college conferences, with trips to nearby colleges, and yearly held career fairs which many seniors have attended, we hope seniors have become aware of both their interests, aptitudes, as well as their individual limitations and differences." Guidance counselors work closely with the classroom teacher in efforts to prepare the student for college board examinations such as the SAT, PSAT, and Achievement Tests.

Sometimes Weequahic students need "extra counseling". The school recognizes the fact that not all problems involving students are academically related. At times students need a different kind of ear, a sympathetic listener and advisor to discuss home, street, or emotionally instituted problems. Social workers Mirkin and Penniston, who both provide that understanding, listening ear, helps the students root out and solve their own problems.

There is a new trend in career education guidance. Mrs. Lewis is responsible for a news bulletin, published once a month to inform the seniors as to conferences, programs, interviews, special tests, scholarship contests, and job placement opportunities.

The secretaries are responsible for a staggering amount of work that must be done quickly and efficiently. Their jobs range from keeping the state attendance register to ordering supplies and handling over-thecounter registrations. In addition to their clerical tasks, the secretaries greet all guests that come into the school. Thus, their job also encompasses the area of public relations. Some secretaries have special assignments such as the principal's secretary, the pay roll secretary, guidance secretary, transcript secretary, et al. Their work is sometimes taken for granted, but without it the school could not function.

The custodial, aide, and security guard staffs at Weequahic are efficient, effective and versatile. Aside from routine but necessary tasks of cleaning, maintaining and securing the building, the staffs are prepared to meet unusual and emergency situations.

There are those who did not really appreciate the aides, security guards, and custodial workers until the strike occured in September of 1975. The building then became cluttered, filthy, unsafe and hazardous to work in. Teachers, students and parents found themselves prevailed upon to carry out cleaning and security duties.

Weequahic students, this year, are enjoying a new, modernly designed cafeteria that is divided into a north wing and a south wing. Seating students is no longer a problem—getting students to return their trays is.

Perhaps most Weequahic students are not as appreciative of the cafeteria as they should be - yet this is probably due to the fact that they don't understand the problems that the cafeteria must face in trying to prepare quality meals. It is no easy task to plan, prepare and serve 2,000 nutritious meals a day, not to mention extras like desserts, salads, and sandwiches.

Mrs. Eugenia Chosney leads the potpourri of WHS faculty diversity. Coming to WHS in 1938, Mrs. Chosney has the distinction of being our longest resident faculty member. Mrs. Chosney's diversity lies in her certification as Guidance Counselor, English teacher, and her acquisition of a degree in Law. Mrs. Loraine White must be the most "titled" teacher in the building: Health and Physical Education Instructor, Movement Club Advisor, Drug Coordinator; plus she holds the coveted title of Junior Varsity Football Coach - the first woman in the state to actually coach football in the public schools. Miss Phyllis Scott serves the town of Irvington three evenings a week as a Civil Defense Reserve Police Officer. Miss Scott's duties parallel those of regular police officers except - she doesn't get paid. Besides singing in the local night spots, Mrs. Linda Kelton hosts her own talk show on Channel 26, Cable-TV, Elizabeth. Actress Joanne Accardi boasts a long list of theatre credits, among them: Wilma in "Lovers and Other Strangers" at the Actor's Loft in Elizabeth. Ms. Carolyn Chesney, a champion fencer, operates and teaches instruction at her own fencing school in NYC. Mrs. Nettie Thomas expands her artistic talents to professional dimensions. She has been commissioned to do portraits and murals. Presently, she expects to receive a federal grant to repaint the five-paneled mural in the lobby of WHS.

Advising potential runaways is just one of the many problems confronting Officer Scott on her assigned beat.

Sweet Sweet Music

The Weequahic Band got off to a late start when Mr. Berggren was transferred from 13th Avenue School after the Weequahic-Central game had been played. Despite rain and cold weather, the band performed at the remaining eight games. At Thanksgiving, a hard working band had produced a new look and a new sound. With the beginning of the concert season, a special all-city band was formed. The Weequahic High School Band was well represented. Concert season also gave everyone a chance to come to rehearsal without the pressure of a weekly performance. Plans were underway for possible trips and performances. The spring parade season was marked by Attucks-King Parade and appearances in Orange and East Orange. Did Weequahic's Band make itself known in Mr. Ross' new town?! When we get ourselves together, we get the job done!

Marty Gibson and Darcea Scott demonstrate their stepping talents.

Step to the Music

To paraphrase the band director in the comic strip Funky Winkerbean, "Football will be played before and after the band show on Saturday." This may not be the prevailing attitude at Weequahic, but then again it may be, as more and more people avoid the half-time rush to get refreshments and remain in the bleachers to watch and listen to the 100 piece marching band. Drum major Marty Gibson and Head Majorette Darcea Scott lead the band, twirlers, and color guards in intricate routines. Routines are invented and practiced after school by dedicated students who work diligently in order to put on fine shows for football games and parades. Added to the rah-rah repertoire of most high school bands were a few contemporary numbers such as "The Hustle" and "Get It On." If this is any indication of the direction in which the band is heading musically, Saturdays just may become the day of the band show.

Seniors Vincent Brown and Lambert Young join the tail of the procession on field.

Gary Cox, backed up with his fellow team mates, has never failed to come across the line first in dual meets. The scores for team members stacked up like this for the season: Gary Cox, 1; Calvin Warren, 7; John Pennix, 8; Angelo Clark, 13; Curtis Battle, 15; Kevin Barnes, 3; Charles Barnes, 5; Leroy Kelly, 9; Lonny Ellis, 10; and Michael Brodie, 12. In state competition Gary Cox finished 5th out of Group 4 - the toughest group in the competition - and the team finished 10th out of the state. The Junior and Senior Varsities took first places in the city; the first time in recent years that such victories have taken place in one, single day.

Soccer

The 1975 soccer season at Weequahic High was not a successful one in terms of won-lost record. Winning only one game, the team was an inexperienced bunch of mostly freshmen and sophomores. Fundamentals were stressed and progress was seen toward the end of the tedious schedule. Playing against very talented squads like East Side and Vailsburg, the Indians took their lumps.

Goalie Norman Kelly made a season's amazing total of 277 saves, many of them in spectacular fashion. The defense was very green and thus gave Mr. Kelly little or no support. Coach Trunk feels that with a year of experience under their belts, the hustling breed can escape the depths of the Newark City League basement in 1976.

Hope springs eternal next Fall at Weequahic High School for the Fighting Indians!

Coach Peter Trunk: C'mon Defense, wake up!

It was a tough but rewarding season

The high point of Weequahic's 6-2-1 season was the upset of the East Side Red Raiders in a Newark City League contest at Unterman Field. Weequahic, sparked by Mike Lemon's outstanding two-way performance, stormed from behind in the final period to defeat East Side, 14-8. Running mates Maurice Brazell and Lemon hooked up for a touchdown. A pass from Brazell to Lemon picked up 21 yards and gave Weequahic a first down on the 12. A pass from Brazell to Darryl Black gained two yards. Then Brazell fired a 22-yard scoring strike to tight end Terrell Murray to give Weequahic the lead. Brazell ran for extra points.

The game typified a season in which, according to Coach Adams, we won the big ones but lost the ones we should have won. Substitutes did a good job filling in for key players on the injury-riddled team. Senior back Mike Robinson, substituting in the Central game, gave a fine performance as he capped a short drive with a nine-yard touchdown run.

All City honors went to Willie Grady, Ron Shuler, Robbie Dews, and Michael Lemon. Players honorably mentioned were Brazell, Banks, Murray, Anthony, Prysock, Wiggins, and Darryl Black. Another player worth mentioning is Senior Virgil Williams, who - praised Coach Whipps - played a consistently good game for a first year man.

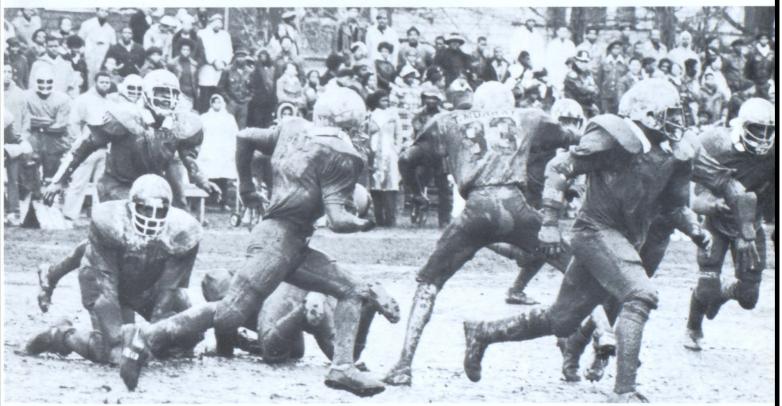

Saturday Excitement

Darryl Black [top left] has the ball in a power play that led to the downfall of the Shabazz team. Black sprinted 22 yards before going the last 13 for the TD. Mike Robinson [top right] gets caught in a clothesline after 15 yard game against West Side. Darryl Black [above] catches a pass for a short gain. Maurice Brazell [opposite page, top] sets up to pass in the East Side game. Willie Grady [opposite page, below] leads the charge.

greatest problems. In an effort to turnabout attitudes, instilling pride and dignify in the student body and the school became the OBA's main goal. First of all, a membership drive was begun in an attempt to involve every student in the school. Highlighting the year's activities was the OBA Ecology Day project - a successful clean-up campaign inside and outside the school. To perpetuate student participation in the overall function of the school, the OBA reinstituted the OBA Credit List. It entailed students receiving credit points for service to the school, from holding office in a club to helping out in the main office. The students with the most points received monetary rewards. Plans for a student store to be run by the OBA got underway, and it is hopeful that the store will open for business next year. An animated movie was shown, cars washed, dances given, and buttons sold - all in the spirit to provide entertainment, raise money, socialize, and increase student pride.

Getting Ready For The Challenge

We have truly traveled a long path, and yet the journey continues along our individually chosen routes. Many of us plan to go to work immediately; and many of us plan to continue our learning through formal study at higher education institutions. Whichever, are you ready for the challenge? Are you willing to work hard to become the best in your chosen fields? When you set out on your journey you must be physically, emotionally, and intellectually equipped to survive in this now economically depressed society. High school has not been a breeze. No matter how much you might think you have "gotten over", you had to work to get this far, one way or another. Your diploma can take you as far as you aspire. The more serious you take it, the more success you will demand of yourself. Make it work - because you worked for it!

We had a jammin' good time our last year at Weequahic. Even though the class as a whole was low on participation, there were those who worked hard to plan and perpetuate activities that kept our class lively and memorable. Let me thank you for permitting me to serve you. It has been a truly rewarding experience to serve as class president 1976.

In Sincere Appreciation,

Michael Draughan Senior Class President Class of 1976

VERNETTA LITTLES Vice-president

COLLETTE MUMFORD

Congratulations to the Class of 1976. It has been an honor and a privilege to have been involved in your activities this year. We are confident that you are prepared to meet the challenges of our complex society. Remember, you have learned from the world you live in and the world expects much in return.

Number one in the class, William Ryans, plans a career as chemical engineer upon graduation from Rutgers School of Engineering. Also interested in engineering are Elvis McDougle (mechanical), Marvin Thomas (chemical), Vanessa Brown (architectural), Thomas Harper (electrical), Kent Jones (electrical), and Robin Murray. Vanessa, who tied with Sharon Coleman for 10th ranking, plans to attend North Carolina A&T. Robin is also attending Rutgers, while Elvis will be receiving his training at Florida Institute of Technology. Marvin is going to Indiana State; Thomas Harper to NC Central U; and Kent to NJ Institute of Technology. Undecided about her plans is Elizabeth Webb, who has been accepted at Wesleyan in Connecticut.

Young people can enlist in the Army and start college at the same time.

Over 1000 colleges and the Army have an educational plan called Project Ahead. It's a way for young people to enlist in the Army and start their college at the same time.

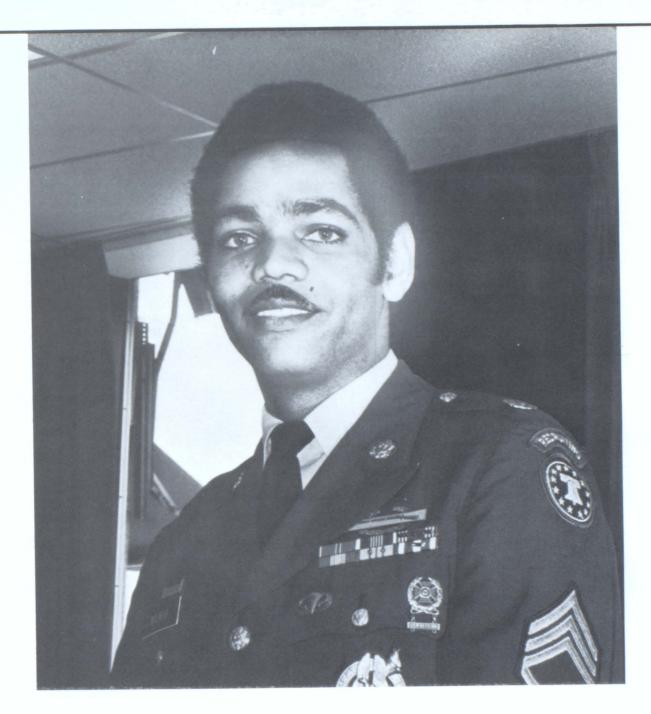

Through Project Ahead, qualified students choose the participating school they'd like to graduate from before enlisting. Then no matter where they study while in the Army, they'll take courses taught by accredited colleges right on post, with the Army paying up to 75% of the tuition.

After their enlistment's over, they'll be eligible for education benefits as prescribed by law.

If you're interested in finding out more about Project Ahead and other opportunities in today's Army, call me.

Call Army SSG Milton Walker about Project Ahead. 372-0233
